Rock Hill Herald: R. A. Minter, who lives near the Catawba dam, was in the city Saturday. He stated that a cyclone passed over this section Friday afternoon about 2 o'clock, uprooting a number of trees and damaging a number of barns and small buildings. So far as could be learned there were no persons injured. Mr. Minter says the funnel shape of the cyclone could be distinctly observed. It dipped near his residence and pulled up two immense trees. It then rose and passed over his house, dipping again a short distance beyond. It was an awe-inspiring spectacle, said Mr. Minter. The area affected was only about a quarter of a mile in width, though he did not know how far the cyclone traveled. It was going in the direction of the bridge over the Catawba, when it passed from hearts with all the nations of mankind. The example of America must be a special example. And it must be an example not merely of peace because it will not fight, but because peace is a healing and elevating inpeace is a nearing and elevating in-fluence of the world and strife is not.

"There is such a thing as a man be-ing too proud to fight. There is such a thing as being so right that it does not need to convince others by force that it is right."

These remarks precipitated a tumult

These remarks precipitated a tumult of applause and patriotic enthusiasm attended by waving of thousands of small American flags. The precident made no direct reference to the Lusi-even money that the war would be tania tragedy, but the audience did over by the first of September. It ap-

United States in the present crisis, the idea uppermost in the president's mind was course is adopted-no matter how vigorous—it will have as its objective the good of humanity. Introduced by Mayor Blankenburg, who spoke in a distinctly German ac-cent a welcome and an appeal for a single allegiance to the United States, the president carried forward the idea of the welding of foreign blood in the makeup of America by pointing out the true goal of right American citizenship to be loyalty not to the country of one's birth but to the land of one's adoption.

"While you bring all countries with you," he said, "you come with a pur-pose of leaving all other countries behind you—bringing what is best of their spirit, but not looking over your shoulder or seeking to perpetuate what you leave in them. I certainly would not be one who would suggest that a man cease to love the place of his origin. It is one thing to love the place where you were born, and another thing to dedicate yourself to the place where you go. You can't be an American if you think of yourself in groups. America does not consist of groups. America does not consist of groups. A man who considers himself as belonging to a national group is not yet an American.

Of Humanity First.

"My advice to you is to think first not only of America, but to think first of humanity, and you do not love humanity if you seek to divide humani-ty into jealous camps." ty into jealous camps."

The president was constantly interrupted by spontaneous outbursts of applause. He spoke clearly and so quiet was his audience of 15,000 that he could be heard distinctly in all parts of the hall. Everywhere red, white and blue flags and bunting were displayed and a band during the evening played netrotic airs. ing played patriotic airs.

Some of the passages in the president's speech which the crowd ap-plauded most loudly were these: "I am sorry for the man who seeks to make personal capital out of the passions of his fellowman. He has lost the touch and ideal of America, for America was created to unite ma kind by the passions that lift and unite and not by the passions that separate and debase mankind.

"The man who seeks to divide man man, group from est from interest in the United States striking at its very heart.

"I was born in America. You dream-ed of what America was to be, and I hope you brought the dreams with you. No man who does not see vi-sions will every realize any high hopes or undertake any great enterprise."

The president aroused much enthusiasm when he said that he had felt that he ought not to be away from Washington, but after coming he found that the gathering had renewed his "grift as an American." his "spirit as an American. "In Washington," he said, "men tell you so many things every day that are not so, that I like to come and stand in the presence of my fellow citizens and drink out of the common ountain with them, feeling the sense of their support."
